

Profile

I have worked for many years in hospitality as a bar manager and then as an international recruitment consultant, these roles have made me into a determined and approachable individual who doesn't shy away from work. I am also highly physical with a mind for security due to the fact I have always had to deal with large quantities of cash, be the first in and last of out of the bar I managed, and even refrain from discussing much of my consultant work at home because of the nature of the projects many of our clients were working on.

I have dealt with numerous chemicals for a variety of different jobs from polishing metals to routinely using corrosives to clean liquid lines. This includes Standard operating procedures and use of PPE.

I am eager to learn and work my way up in this industry as the opportunity for advancement and upskilling seems very achievable for those who are capable and willing to do so.

Hobbies and Interests

History: I have a deep love for all aspects of history and in my spare time can be usually be found elbow deep in stories from the Roman Republic or the Second World War. Feel free to quiz me as I am a fountain of obscure facts and knowledge.

Fitness/Gym: Staying fit is very important to me and getting into the gym regularly has become somewhat of a religion.

Cooking: Largely a habit I solidified during quarantine. Cooking and eating healthily has become a major part of my life and trying new things is always interesting! (which has probably made my mother happiest as we now share cook books)
